Teach Me Handwriting

This eBook follows the lessons in The Reading Lesson book and as such has 20 lessons. We suggest that you do the writing practice after you have completed the lesson from the Reading Lesson book. The reading lesson should come first as the writing lesson here may contain words that child has not yet learned to read.

If your child is just beginning to learn to write by hand, please first do that pages from The Writing Lesson CD-ROM (available at www.mountcastleshop.com). The exercises in that CD are better suitable for a child who does not yet have good hand writing skills.

If your child has good hand coordination, you may want to try the Script version of this eBook. It has the same 20 lessons, but the font used is different, better suited for a child in first or second grade.

Please print the lesson from this book, and note the items that your child finds difficult. We suggest that you reprint the difficult pages and have child do them a few times. Blank pages can be used to encourage child to create his/her own story.

Our best wishes,

Charan and Michael
